

Fan Liu received the Bachelor's degree in Transmission project from Northeast Electric Power University, Jilin, China, in 2018. He is currently studying for a master's degree at Northeast University of Petroleum in Heilongjiang Province, China. His research interest is mainly in the application of manifold learning methods in bearing failures.