

Mengyao Xu received the B.S. degrees in electrical engineering from Wuhan University of Technology (WHUT), Wuhan, China, in 2019.

She is currently working toward the master degree in electrical engineering at Huazhong University of Science and technology. Her current research interests include optimal schedule of electric vehicles participating in regulation ancillary service of power systems.